By ROY ESSOYAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Vietnamese students acted today to spearhead a growing protest move against President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime, now functioning on a strongly military basis.

With most Buddhist leaders under arrest, the students took over leadership of the anti-government campaign. They called for a general student strike in the capital and backed up the call with two demonstrations at Saigon University.

Students in Hue, where the Buddhist crisis exploded May 8 with raids on a Buddhist temple, went on strike last week.

Today's demonstrations in the capital violated martial law in effect since Wednesday.

The students acclaimed ex-Foreign Minister Vu Van Mau as their hero in one jostling, cheering display by more than 1,000 demonstrators at the law faculty building, a demonstration with which police did not interfere.

But nearly a score of trucks carrying police poured into the area as 500 students gathered at the science faculty to urge their dean to resign. The meeting was broken up without incident when soldiers, secret police, city police and firemen moved onto the campus.

Mau, who shaved his head like a Buddhist monk's and resigned in protest against government policies toward Buddhists, told his hearers that a faculty delegation called on President Ngo Dinh Diem Friday to demand the release of more than 1,000 Buddhist monks, nuns and students arrested since martial law was proclaimed.

For more than an hour, the milling students clustered around Mau, shouting and applauding, often drowning out his words.

Armed troops and police watched from a street outside. The law faculty building but made no attempt to interfere. The demonstration went itself out.

Meantime, Mau's status was complicated by Diem's refusal to accept the foreign minister's resignation.

Instead, Diem granted Mau three months' official leave, the official Viet Nam news agency said, and appointed Truong Cong Cuu to act as foreign secretary. Cuu has been coordinating secretary of state for cultural and social affairs.

Nguyen Huu Dong, a student leader who attends the architecture school, said a committee has been formed to spearhead the student protest movement.

He said appeals for aid were being dispatched to foreign capitals.

The official news agency said troops and police enforcing martial law in Binh Thuan province arrested 43 persons at the Binh Quang pagoda and the Buddhist Association chapter pagoda in Phan Thiet city Wednesday night.

Diem's government announced Friday that while martial law remains in effect, all ministries will take orders from the military. The State Department in Washington said Mau's resignation as foreign minister was one factor delaying Henry Cabot Lodge, the new U.S. ambassador, in presenting his credentials to Diem.

There had been no American contact with Diem since martial law was declared through Saturday morning, although U.S. authorities had talked with other Saigon officials, including Diem's brother Ngo Dinh Nhu, who is head of the secret police.

A statement by Richard I. Phillips, State Department press officer, said U.S. aid for Viet Nam in the fight against Communist guerrillas would continue. "There has been no change in our basic policy of assisting Viet Nam in its prosecution of the war against the Communist Viet Cong," he said.

Choice of Cars Not Too Good

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—George Eugene Bueno, 17, of Pueblo, Colo., was indicted Thursday on an FBI complaint charging theft of a federal property.

The FBI said that Bueno broke into a downtown Pueblo garage Sunday night and stole a car. Bueno should have picked another car. This one belonged to the FBI.

Weather

Clear to partly cloudy with little change in temperature through Saturday night; isolated thunder showers mainly in the w.e. Saturday afternoon.

Snow Lake Threatens to Secede

SNOW LAKE, Ark. (AP)—Mississippi Township residents, who have to drive 200 miles to get to a county seat only 40 miles away, threaten to secede unless they get "recognition" from Desha County officials.

They have invited county officials to a Sept. 6 meeting to discuss the withdrawal—if they care to make the 400-mile round trip.

The southeast Arkansas community is cut off from the remainder of Desha County by the White and Arkansas Rivers and the wilderness of the White River Wildlife Refuge.

Its 845 residents have to drive north to Helena, Ark., and double back down the state to get to Arkansas City, the Desha County seat.

Principal thorns in the side of the township are lack of good roads and having to pay for county bond issues from which it can derive no benefit.

A group of residents who placed an advertisement in the McGehee Times (McGehee is 33 miles northeast of the county seat) said the meeting would be held to see if citizens would prefer to belong to Phillips County.

Helena, only 60 miles to the north, is the Phillips County seat. The newspaper ad, signed by Burton Funk and B. H. Williamson Jr., said that Mississippi Township residents pay a three mill county road tax, but cannot get gravel from the county to surface their roads.

The only state road leading to the community is Highway 85, and it doesn't quite get there. It ends at nearby Snow Lake. The Highway Department map doesn't show even a gravel road entering the township.

The 1,000-watt station will broadcast from the frequency of 1500 kilocycles during daylight hours. It is owned by the Jacksonville Broadcast Co., Inc., of which C. S. Dupree is president. Jimmy Sizemore of Prescott is station manager, Joan Sizemore, program coordinator; Robert Hill, staff announcer and Frank Jenkins, chief engineer.

Studios of the station are located in downtown Jacksonville, with the transmitter 1 1/2 miles south of the city on U.S. Highway 67.

Solons Fight Deadline In Rail Strike

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prospects for congressional action in time to prevent a nationwide rail strike were cloudy today. A bill providing for binding arbitration of the dispute over mass job cuts promptly ran into opposition from labor.

The bill, approved by the Senate Commerce Committee Friday, was denounced by the presidents of the five operating unions involved in the four-year-old work rules dispute as "compulsory arbitration, and in violation of all tenets of free collective bargaining."

A spokesman for the carriers said they would have no immediate comment.

The bill would set up a seven-man board, composed of two representatives each from the railroads and the unions and three from the public, to settle the dispute within six months in the absence of a negotiated agreement.

The bill is to be brought up in the Senate on Monday. The House is awaiting Senate action before moving on the bill.

Congress is up against a deadline of one minute after midnight Wednesday. This is the time the railroads have announced they will put the new job-cutting work rules into effect—an action the unions have said will mean an immediate strike.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., who conducted the commerce committee's hearings on the dispute, said he still hoped the railroads and the unions would resolve their differences without congressional action. This seems unlikely. Negotiations ended in a deadlock Wednesday.

If no agreement is reached and Congress is in the process of passing the bill, Pastore said he hoped the railroads would delay the posting of the new rules for a few days.

Under the bill, the arbitration board would be required to begin hearings within 30 days on the two chief issues in dispute and make a decision within 60 days thereafter.

These issues involve the elimination of 32,000 firemen jobs on diesel freight and yard service trains and a reduction of the size of train crews. The carriers say they have to remove costly and unnecessary labor from their payrolls. The unions contend manpower cuts would impair operations.

The bill provides for immediate resumption of collective bargaining on lesser issues in dispute. But if no agreement is reached on these within 30 days after the board decides the firemen and crew-size questions, they too are to be arbitrated by the board.

The board would have to rule on these subsidiary issues within 60 days after taking jurisdiction.

The rulings of the board would be effective for such period as it designated up to a maximum of two years, unless extended by mutual agreement of the parties.

However, a decision on the two main issues would not be effective until resolution of all issues. Under the timetable set out in the bill, this could not be later than March 1, 1964.

In approving the bill, the commerce committee rejected the recommendation of President Kennedy that the dispute be turned over to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Under Kennedy's plan, the commission would have been empowered to issue work rules binding for two years unless supplanted by agreements reached through collective bargaining.

Frisco Wants to Close Depot

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Frisco Railroad has asked the Arkansas Commerce Commission for permission to close its agency station at Black Oak in Craighead County.

A hearing was set for Sept. 19 on the request.

The station has operated only four months a year since 1950—September through December—the railroad said. A caretaker has been on the site the rest of the year.

In its petition the railroad said the station is no longer needed.

Rainmaker Vows to Bring Some Relief

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP)—Rainmaker Homer Berry vowed today that he would bring rain to Greene County "even if I go broke."

The retired Air Force major explained that all the atmospheric conditions were against him, but "It's going to rain. It might be Oct. 1, but it is going to rain."

Berry signed a contract Aug. 13 with Greene County farmers and businessmen to bring an inch of rain by last Tuesday. He received a $1,000 down-payment and was to get another $1,000 when the rains came.

The rains haven't come. But Berry says they will by the weekend, and then "It's going to be a gullywasher. It will go down in the history books as the biggest continuous downpour northeast Arkansas has ever seen."

Berry claimed that he had produced an inch and a half of rain on 13 consecutive projects within seven days after he began them. He said he failed in Greene County because of "freak atmospheric conditions."

Berry said the barometer had registered 48 per cent humidity ever since he began pumping chemicals into the clouds from the back of his pickup truck. On every other project, the humidity has been no less than 66 per cent, he explained.

In addition, he said, high pressure areas generally undergo a change every 48 hours, but not so in Greene County.

Berry burns silver iodide soaked coke in a brick-lined burner. He says the heat from the burner carries iodine particles into the clouds, where moisture condenses around them and falls as rain.

With the low humidity, he said, the chemicals won't "take hold and gel."

All New Cars Come With Seat Belts

DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry made a major concession to the average motorist Thursday but the car owner will pay the bill.

General Motors, followed in quick succession by Chrysler, Ford and American Motors, announced, effective Jan. 1, 1964, that all their new cars will be equipped with seat belts. Studebaker started the trend with a similar announcement last March 1.

The industry had been under growing pressure since the 1950's when Nash-Kelvinator's 1950 Rambler series offered seat belts. Groups interested in traffic safety and in cutting down the nation's death toll of an estimated 40,000 persons in some 10-million car accidents had urged wider adoption of safety belts.

Start with 1962 models, built-in anchorages for seat belts were provided by all U.S. manufacturers so that dealers could make seat belt installations quickly and cheaply at a cost ranging upwards from about $20.

The auto firms said list prices of their cars will be adjusted to reflect the inclusion of front seat belts as standard equipment. Cost increases were not announced, but GM said its present cost is $18 or more plus installation.

The growth will give the city an additional $4,969 in state turn-back funds.

Smith said the official figure would be announced at Washington in about three weeks.

Blevins Has Many Sidelights in History — One Concerns a Well That Frosted in Summer

By MARY ANITA LASETER

The first federal judge of this area is buried near Blevins. At the request of Judge Edward Cross, he was buried in the Witherspoon private cemetery at Blevins with a headstone in the form of a stump as he wished to be remembered as one of the "stumps" of Arkansas.

This judge came to Arkansas in 1826 and settled a homestead a few miles out from Blevins. He was appointed by President Andrew Jackson as judge of the Superior Court in 1832. From '36 to '38 he was Surveyor General of Public Lands and from 1838-44 he was a member of congress. He was appointed Judge of the Supreme Court of Arkansas while in Washington, D. C. Also, he was active in forming the Cairo & Fulton Railroad and was president of the company from 1855 to 1862.

There are many sidelights on the early history of Blevins. It seems that in the early and middle 19th century Wallaceburg was the town and Blevins was just a stage stop between Wallaceburg and Washington. The late Mrs. Della McClanahan, whose daughters Misses Dell and Florence reside in Hope, lived at Wallaceburg as a child.

She knew Nannie and Mollie Blevins and once told of a peculiar spring or well that was on their place. When they first started using it, they noticed how cold the water was, but it was just right to drink. However, during the summer it began to get colder and colder until the people became afraid to drink it, and Mrs. McClanahan's father had the well filled in and another one dug.

No one ever solved the mystery of why the well water was so cold that frost would form around the rim of it. It was similar to water from a cold mountain stream, but there were no mountains.

When Blevins was a stage stop for travelers through Hempstead County, the "Blevins House" was a favorite stopping place. The story is told that one night some pioneers on their way to Texas put up at this place, and one of their children was ill. The father asked Mr. Blevins for some milk for his child and the host complied. The next morning when the family was ready to start, Blevins gave them a cow and told them to see that the child got plenty of milk. The travelers continued on their way to Texas and the incident was forgotten.

One morning about six months later, Mr. Blevins got up and the first thing he saw as he looked out of the door was the same old cow standing at his front gate. Instead of "the cat," this was the cow that came home.

Adams' Return

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Adams, injured in a car accident last Friday while accompanying Gov. Orval E. Faubus to the Southern Governors Conference at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., were flown to Little Rock Thursday night and admitted to Arkansas Baptist Hospital. Adams is former state Welfare Commissioner.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A protest to the state Public Service Commission against an increase in natural gas rates being sought by Arkansas Western Gas Co. of Fayetteville was filed Thursday by the City of Clarksville. Arkansas Western is seeking an increase in residential bills of some 51 cents a month and commercial bills of $1.87. Clarksville maintained its protest that since the firm was located near its source of supply an increase was unnecessary.

Weather Near Season Normal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas weather was nearer normal for August Thursday and the Weather Bureau said today would be a carbon copy.

High temperatures Thursday afternoon were generally in the 90s and Fort Smith reported a 99. There was no rain in the state, and a frontal system that had become nearly stationary was expected to hold off showers through the weekend.

Overnight lows reported around the state this morning were generally in the high 60s and low 70s, but Gilbert recorded a chilly 56. Highs were expected to be mostly in the 90s again today. Lows of 65-75 were predicted for tonight.

Temperatures during the next five days were expected to average two to four degrees above normal. Widely scattered thunder showers near the last of the period were expected to produce around a quarter of an inch or less of rainfall.

Normal highs range from the upper 90s north to the low 90s south. Normal lows range from the low to mid 60s north and near 70s south.

Rules Memoirs of Prostitute Not Obscene

NEW YORK (AP)—A judge ruled today that the 18th century novel, "Memoirs of a Woman of Pleasure," was not obscene and should not be banned from sale in New York state.

State Supreme Court Justice Arthur G. Klein gave the ruling although he expressed doubt the book ever would "replace 'Little Red Riding Hood' as a popular bedtime story."

The district attorneys of New York City's five counties and the city corporation counsel had sought a ban on the book, commonly known as "Fanny Hill." It deals with a 15-year-old girl who becomes a prostitute.

Klein said the novel, written in 1749 by John Cleland, could not be characterized as patently offensive when examined in the light of current community standards.

It contains little more than the public has encountered in newspaper reporting of England's recent "Profumo" scandal, or in "art movies," he said.

New Test Set Off in Nevada

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced another underground nuclear test was set off today at its Nevada test site.

The test is the third since this country agreed with Russia and Great Britain on a treaty which would ban all except underground testing.

Today's test was of low yield, meaning a blast equivalent of less than 20,000 tons of TNT.

Land Can Earn Without Any Farming

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Members of the Arkansas Farmers Union were told Thursday that they don't necessarily have to farm to make money off their land.

John A. Baker, assistant Secretary of Agriculture, told delegates to the union convention at Little Rock, "There is nothing different about providing a place for people to ride on bicycles, and pay you for it, or to have riding horses to rent, or a lake to fish in, where you can make $40 an acre off it."

"There is no difference between that kind of rural enterprise than in raising cows, corn or whatever else."

Baker, who also is director of farm credit services for the department, said the United States and, in fact, all Democratic nations of the Western World, are entering a new era for rural people.

Arkansas, he said, is one of three or four states in the nation which are leaders in rural development.

Future rural development, he said, would include recreational features and emphasize tourism.

The two-day union convention closes today.

Pickets Are Ordered Out by Wagner

NW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner has called a halt to the around-the-clock sit-in outside his City Hall office by civil rights demonstrators.

Wagner ordered the pickets out Thursday after a noisy melee in which three policemen were injured.

A dozen pickets ran up the City Hall steps and tried to chain themselves to a pillar at the entrance. Policemen prevented them from accomplishing a chain-in.

Policemen and pickets wrestled among clanking chains. Other demonstrators left a picket line on a nearby street and marched on City Hall, using fists and knees on policemen.

Some of the pickets screamed: "Wagner, stay home." This was in reference to the mayor's recent announcement that he would participate in the march on Washington next Wednesday.

The pickets said he should stay here and help find more jobs for Negroes and Puerto Ricans in the construction industry — a major goal of the demonstrators.

Police forced the pickets down the City Hall steps and back into the street there, blocking traffic. Mounted police dispersed them.

Nine demonstrators were arrested at City Hall.

The sit-in had been going on for 44 days. Negro and white demonstrators camped outside Wagner's office, chanting, singing and sometimes calling out denunciations of Wagner and other city officials.

Viet Nam Is Example of U.S. Dilemma

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Viet Nam is the perfect example of this country's dilemma in trying to deal with a dictatorship in a backward country which it hopes to keep out of communism.

For years the United States has pampered, placated and pacified South Viet Nam's dictator President Ngo Dinh Diem while he warred against the Communist guerrillas of North Viet Nam. This has been true since he took over in 1955.

Yet, in those years he couldn't have lasted without American help or perhaps even escaped alive.

But the United States was afraid to antagonize him. It felt it knew of no other leader who could rally the South Vietnamese against the Reds. Now suddenly the United States gets tough.

It has condemned his onslaught against the Vietnamese Buddhists who make up 70 per cent of the 14.5 million people. Some of Diem's generals are Buddhists. So are some members of the so-called Assembly. Diem rules by decree.

He and his family—his brothers and his powerful sister-in-law, Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, are his closest advisers—run the country. All are Roman Catholics. Vietnamese democracy has been called "Democracy."

Diem denies the Buddhists' charges of religious persecution. Five of them have burned themselves to death in protest. Mrs. Nhu calls them fanatics and says she would clap hands if 30 monks barbed themselves.

The United States is again motivated by fear in criticizing Diem's treatment of the Buddhists: fear that his tactics will lose him support among the people and jeopardize the whole war against communism.

Where this new toughness will lead, or how long it will last, is unpredictable. But if the United States had been tougher with Diem long ago, Viet Nam might now be a better bulwark against communism.

Put yourself in the position of the poor, illiterate Vietnamese masses with a short life expectancy because of disease and lack of medical care. They have not known much about freedom, except perhaps freedom to die, and nothing at all about democracy or communism.

This ignorance about the isms explains the peasants' great lack of interest in the war. If you were a peasant and had to make a choice between the two, you'd pick the one that promised the most for you and your family.

To be persuasive, the Diem government would have to give tangible evidence, in reforms and programs, of what being on the non-Communist side could mean. Diem has given the people few reforms or programs. The American government has done extremely little talking about them, either.

Diem, an aristocrat, has been mainly concerned with fighting the guerrillas and keeping power. He has a secret police to help him keep it. Mrs. Nhu said frankly not long ago her family has money and wants power.

Since Diem took over eight years ago this country has put over $2.5 billion into Viet Nam. It has more than 12,000 troops there, a number of whom have been killed.

That war, which now has no end in sight, might be going differently if the United States long ago had gotten tough with Diem and demanded he put in reforms and programs that would give the peasants a good reason for being non-Communist.

This year four senators who visited Viet Nam returned and said in a report:

"Present political practices in Viet Nam do not appear to be mobilizing the potential capacities for able and self-sacrificing leadership on a substantial scale."

"The government of Viet Nam and our policies, particularly in the design and administration of aid, must bear a substantial, a very substantial, share of the responsibility."

In one form or another the Viet Nam kind of problem haunts the United States around the world in backward countries, or not so backward ones, where it is giving aid to frustrate communism.

It's how to get a dictatorship, or a ruling rich elite, to give the masses programs for a better way of life as visible cause for preferring not to be Communist.

Height without teasing is the feature of two sleek and easy-to-do hair styles (above) by Frederick Jones. The model (left) wears a bow to highlight a top knot created by working the back hair into a twist and putting this into a top knot. Her hair in front is brushed from a short side part into cheek waves. A variation (right) features a bang brushed over the brow from the lower right side. The hair at the side is brushed over the top of the ears. Although the top hair at the back is put into a twist, the ends are left in soft curls.

DOROTHY DIX

ONE TEEN WHO KNOWS WHAT SHE WANTS
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Though a girl of only 14 I know what I want to be in life. I've known it since I was small. I want to be a writer.

People smile and say I'll change my mind as I get older. At mention of being a writer my mother looks at me as if I'd said a dirty word.

I am on the staff of our school paper. If I show her and my father some copy containing a story of mine, they are too busy to read it. When I mentioned that I was writing a short story for a contest in Seventeen magazine, they thought me crazy.

I think I have the greatest family in the world, we're all for one and one for all, and they probably oppose a writing career for me because they think it a hard life. Is it? Please tell me the advantages as well as disadvantages of pursuing such a career. —Miss Shakespeare

Dear Miss Shakespeare: It's very refreshing to hear of a young person who already knows what she wants to do with her life. You may change your mind later on and wind up pushing a baby carriage instead of the keys of a typewriter, but your training as a writer will never be wasted no matter what the future has in store for you.

Almost every profession has a need for lucid, forceful writing. If you have this ability, you'll be several jumps ahead of everyone else in the field. Even letter writing, treated as an art, can add tremendously to the sum total of human happiness and personal satisfaction.

Naturally I believe that the advantages of writing outweighs the disadvantages. But bear in mind that there are always some disadvantages to every type of work. I think possibly the toughest aspect of writing—and this applies to all the arts—is the self-discipline required. The amount varies according to the type of writing, but in the last analysis, your choice and arrangement of words depend on you and you alone. It's far easier, for instance, for most people to put in an appearance in an office from nine to five than it is to sit all alone in front of a typewriter groping for an idea, and once snared, to express it effectively.

Will power and singleness of purpose are essential characteristics of a writer because no one else is standing over him, telling him what to do.

Stiff competition presents a formidable obstacle. Paradoxically, while there is a dearth of really good writers, the number of second and third raters is staggering. The monetary rewards of success are quite dazzling, but thousands of writers barely make ends meet and many must resort to other jobs to keep body and soul together. Even the well established writers now periods of least and famine while nearly all writers are constantly beset by the tortures of self-criticism and doubt.

Economic security is not one of the by-products of writing. Your parents are probably justified in thinking of it in terms of a hard life. But what worthwhile, fascinating pursuit isn't tough? Anyone with a burning desire to do something—whether it's acting, singing, exploring outer space, or writing a best-seller—should not be deterred by obstacles. Set your sights on the many advantages.

Foremost, in my opinion, is the wide freedom of choice you can exercise in what, where, and when you write. The variety of what you can write ranges from a full length novel to song lyrics or advertising copy. You can write anywhere—in an office on Madison Avenue, a shack in the Maine woods, or in a suburban kitchen. When you write can also be a matter of choice, depending on the type of work you're doing.

The satisfaction of creating something that is uniquely yours is immeasurable, and the thrill of seeing your work in print more than makes up for the labor pains and the heartaches caused by rejection slips.

Infinite curiosity about human beings and the world we live in, and a broad base of general knowledge are important requisites for writing; so I strongly recommend your acquiring as much education as you can. Working on your school newspaper is invaluable experience. So is extensive reading of all kinds of literature, both contemporary and classic. You have many years ahead in which to prepare yourself. Good luck! Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "So You Want to Write."

Dear Helen: I pray that your love may abound more and more in knowledge and judgment; that you may approve that which is excellent and that you may be sincere and without offense till the day of Christ. What God has called sin is found in Galatians V:19. The Bible says we have all sinned and were born with a sinful nature. By confessing our sins and asking forgiveness of God we can be freed of sin. When we live by His plan we can be happy. May you guide others to live eternally in Christ's love. —Mrs. Glenn Snyder, Mount Joy.

Dear Mrs. Snyder: Your prayer is my prayer.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Faubus' Friends Return to State

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Three persons who were injured in a traffic accident in Tennessee last week while traveling with Gov. Orval E. Faubus have been returned to Arkansas to recuperate.

They are former Welfare Commissioner Carl Adams and Mrs. Adams and State Police Lt. Clarence Montgomery.

Montgomery was driving a car in which the Adams were riding. The governor's car, just ahead, was struck by a careening car which then collided with the Adams car. The governor was not hurt.

The Adams have been under treatment in a Carthage hospital and Montgomery has been in a Lebanon hospital. The Adams were flown to Little Rock in a private plane Thursday and are in a Little Rock hospital. Montgomery returned to his home in Forrest City by car Thursday night.

Funds for Park
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has allocated $702,000 in Accelerated Public Works funds to the Ouachita and Ozark National Forests, Sen. John L. McClellan said Thursday.

Ouachita is to get $189,000 for use in eight counties and Ozark $513,000 for use in 13 counties, McClellan said.

IT'S FUNNY how an outstanding local opportunity can exist in Hope, Ark., and so few qualified men know about it... A fine job, requiring only a desire to earn enough money for the nicer things of life... a real challenge, as an employee of one of the nation's great companies, to become a leading business man in the Hope trade area requiring only hard work, imagination and initiative. All of this and a $4800 salary plus car expenses... yet, it's funny how difficult it is to get the man and the job together... Maybe YOU fit. If you like people, have at least a high school education, are between 27 and 42 years old, write Jack M. Harness, 1424 Union Ave., Memphis, Tenn. for an application...

Tells Why Goal Wasn't Reached

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—X-15 pilot Joseph A. Walker says a faulty instrument made him undershoot his goal by two miles. He hit a record altitude of 68 1/2 miles away Thursday.

Walker placed blame on a new instrument, an altitude predictor. It is designed to tell the pilot when to shut down the engine or lower the climb angle to avoid overshooting his mark.

"Near the top of the climb I had an altitude prediction of 363,000 feet," the space agency pilot told newsmen after the flight. "So I nosed her over a little. It looks like the predictor was off about 11,000 feet."

Walker reached 351,000 feet. His goal was 360,000 feet, more than 68 miles. Walker set the previous record of 348,000 feet July 19.

Votes Dividend
DARDANELLE, Ark. (AP) — Harold Snyder, president of Arkansas Valley Industries, Inc., said Tuesday the AVI board of directors had voted a two percent stock dividend, payable Sept. 20 to stockholders of record on Sept. 5.

NLB Cites Firm at El Dorado

WASHINGTON (AP)—Trial Examiner W. Gerard Ryan of the National Labor Relations Board recommended Thursday that Southern Transport, Inc., of El Dorado cease and desist from refusing to bargain collectively with a local of the Teamsters Union. Ryan's recommendation said members of the Truck Drivers and Helpers Local Union No. 568 of the Teamsters went on strike in February and charges were filed against the firm in March. The trucking firm has continued to operate.

Clearer skin and lustrous hair come from daily good beauty habits. This teen-ager nibbles on a low-calorie carrot instead of eating a rich, gooey snack while chatting with a friend.

BETWEEN THE ACTS: Theater-goer, decked out in evening clothes, does a little buying before attending play in Paramus, N.J., shopping center.

Night Golf Not Like Day Play

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

SEWELL, N.J. (AP)—Okay, so nighttime golf is here. Now what? "We won't play the National Open under arcs any time soon," said P. J. Boalright, assistant executive director of the U.S. Golf Association. "It's interesting and it's fun, but you can't expect it to take the place of daytime play. 'Night golf should lend itself particularly to the overcrowded public courses.'"

"It has its problems," added Fred Corcoran, tournament director of the International Golf Association. "I remember I predicted back in 1939 that golf courses one day would be lighted, but it'll be a few years before this becomes a general fact."

Boalright and Corcoran were two of the many golf personalities invited to Tall Pines here this weekend to see a bit of golf history made—lighting of the first regulation course.

At a cost of $63,000, 121 powerful mercury floodlights of 1,000 watts each have been mounted on 76 40-foot wood poles around the nine-hole course, pouring out light equal to the flame of six million candles.

Although driving ranges, miniature layouts and some 200 sporty par-three courses are illuminated for night play, this is the first man-sized course to heat the darkness barrier. Tall Pines, a private club, has holes comparable to those the pros play on tour, with 28 deep sand traps, 1,000 added trees and out-of-bounds on five holes.

A par-five hole stretches 520 yards. A valley par-four reaches 420 yards, and another 415. There is a par-three of 215 yards. Played twice around, it measures 6,450 yards with par 35-35-70. "It's not daylight, but it's the nearest thing to it and the best money can buy," said the owner of the little private club, Peter McEvoy, Sr.

Larry Dengler, marketing engineer for the electrical concern which installed the system, predicted there would be a mass movement toward lighted courses, with municipal layouts in the van.

THE STORY: Benson has met Linda Ybarra in the garden at her father's ranch.

XVIII

The gloomy, massive furniture, dark with stain like quagulated blood, watched me with a kind of brooding blankness; remote, untouchable; disdainfully, it seemed, aware of my trespass.

I was not kept long waiting. Heralded by a squeaking rasp of footsteps Don Alfredo appeared, all smiles, hand extended. Watching him suspiciously I made out not to notice. He gave me back the same treatment and, ignoring my rudeness, briskly clapped his hands. To the halless lackey who came darting in, he said: "Please see to the gentleman's horse. An armful of hay and —"

"I can't stay!" I cried. "I've a million things to see to . . . and plunged on impatiently. "I was told you wished to see me?"

"But, of course," Ybarra smiled. "It will keep, I think. Sit down, my friend. This poor house is yours. May I offer you some coffee, freshly roasted? Perhaps some cakes and a glass of wine?"

It was made in Heimosllo. "Really, I don't have the time, Don Alfredo," I scowled, feeling churlish. "What do you want of me? Your man . . ."

"Yes, Pablo. Muy impetuoso. Would you believe he worked one time in Del Norte? It is true. Always, now, he is in the great hurry," the old man informed me with a tolerant chuckle. "Very Americano, Pablo—but I disapprove. With your permission I would like to speak of those . . . ah . . . cattle, señor . . . the ones you bought with the little ranch."

"Yes?" I said. "A thousand pardons, but if you still wish to sell them . . ."

He must have noticed my surprise. "It is not, you'll understand, that I have actual need. But if you have not already arranged for their disposal I would be glad—since we are neighbors—to take them off your hands." He smiled. "And how much are you prepared to offer?" I shot back. "How many do you count?"

I said rather testily, "I haven't made any count—" and could

Hot Springs, said Thursday, making it the leader in the nation in percentage of increase over the previous year.

I suppose it was the smile that finally tipped the scales. He didn't care if I saw how sure he was of victory. That grin was a taunt. "All right!" I said, and grabbed up my hat.

But I was not to get home without seeing Linda.

She was gathering flowers and glanced up with bold eyes as I came from the house. She had the grace of a puma stepping into my path, and with that rainbow of poses, might have passed for a madonna. Except for her eyes and those magdalene lips.

have bitten my tongue.

But he did not appear to find anything unusual in my having bought the place without insisting on some sort of tally. He said pleasantly, "I am fairly well acquainted with what you have over there. I will give you $4,000 for the herd as it stands, and round them up myself."

I was about to growl "Done!" when, with his smile growing wider, he astonishingly said, "Or I'll run you a race for them, taking the cattle in any event but paying you an additional thousand if I should happen to lose. And how does that strike you, my friend? Is it fair?"

"Race what?" I said, excited but wary.

"Do you not claim to be a breeder of horses? Run anything you wish against my stallion, Lagrimas, por tres estadios—at three furlongs."

"I PRESS FORWARD"

... to a high calling in Christ. For I know, "out of the lowest depths there is a path to the loftiest heights."

This man's challenge is higher ground... to blaze his way to God. His highest moral intent is to go Heavenward. God had a purpose in his road-block. Maybe there is one before you. God doesn't make it easy for us to be good. But He gave Jacob a ladder and he climbed to Princehood with God. From way down, a man can climb way up when his purpose is lofty. The church will help every man in his climb if he truly seeks higher ground. You are what you want to be — good or bad; of God or of the devil. Then seek good this week... go to church.

You In The Church

The Church In You — form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

It is Paid For By Frims Who Hope To Measure Their Reward In Greater Numbers Of People Attending Church.
